THREE CENTS

Today

AGAIN, LINDBERGH.
ZARO AND A TURTLE.
WRONG, MR. SHAW.

—By Arthur Brisbane—

THE brain power of man seems to stand still. The civilized world today is far below the intellectual average of Athens, in Pericles' day.

But science goes ahead and will gradually drag us with it. Flying is the new, great feat of science. You see today pictures of Lindbergh and his wife in costumes for high air flying. Much like Esquimaux costumes but actually electrically heated flying suits.

You know the latest Lindbergh achievement, crossing the continent in 14 hours and 45 minutes, flying over 10,000 feet high.

LINDBERGH, warned of storms, said, "We expect to fly high enough to miss the storms."

High up in the air, no storms. Deep in the ocean, no waves, and not very deep in either direction. Up a few miles a gentle breeze caused by the earth's movement moves always toward the east.

Flying only 10,000 feet up, Lindbergh could not see the towns over which he passed. This interests army officers of the Victorian era, who think anti-aircraft or coast defense guns will be useful in future wars.

ZARO AGHA of Constantinople is 156 years old, his grandson 100 years.

The American Anti-Alcohol society will exhibit them here as "proof of the benefit to be derived from total abstinence."

Everything that encourages temperance is useful. The Anti-Alcohol society might exhibit with its Turkish gentlemen, who obey the laws of Mohammed, one of the 900-year-old turtles from the Galapagos island, who also drink no alcohol.

It isn't what you drink or don't drink but what you amount to that counts.

As Francis Bacon says, "A man is what he knows."

Zaro Agha and the Galapagos turtle don't know much.

YESTERDAY was celebrated the anniversary of the founding of Rome. You know the story which sounds improbable now. Two little brothers, Romulus and Remus, their mother the vestal virgin Silvia, their father Mars god of war. In a wooden trough they were set afloat on the River Tiber and landed in a thicket in a marsh under a fig tree, long worshipped as sacred.

A FEMALE WOLF kindly nursed the two boys. A woodpecker fed them. Then a shepherd's wife took care of them.

Later Romulus, killed his brother Remus in a quarrel after they had founded Rome.

The whole year was borrowed from the Greeks by the Romans, just as according to antiquarians much of a religion professed by many was borrowed from the Babylonians.

PARKER NOT TO LEAVE CONTEST

Supreme Court Nominee May Request Hearing Before Senate

WASHINGTON, April 22.—Judge John J. Parker has informed his friends here that he has no intention of withdrawing as a nominee for the supreme court because of the opposition of labor and negro organizations or because of the senate judiciary committee's action in opposing his confirmation.

He is now considering the advisability of requesting that the committee give him an opportunity to appear before it and answer the objections that have been raised against him. His supporters in the senate believe that such a course will be followed.

Some members of the committee have said that if Judge Parker wants to be heard they will be glad to hear him, but his question, if the request is made, must be settled by a vote of the committee. Yesterday a motion that Judge Parker be asked to appear was defeated. At the same time, the committee voted to disapprove his nomination.

Objection to the confirmation of Judge Parker's nomination was raised by the American Federation of Labor and the association for the advancement of colored people. The former argued that Parker was biased in favor of property rights as opposed to human rights and based this contention upon a decision of the nominee as a member of the federal circuit bench, which upheld the so-called "yellow dog contract" under which employers bind themselves not to join labor unions.

Will Show Pictures

Virgil Argo, extension service man of Ohio State university, Columbus, will exhibit a four-reel motion picture of the bee-keeping industry, at a meeting of the Columbiana County Bee Keepers' association, which will be held Friday evening at the Farm bureau office, at Lisbon.

SALEM MAN DIES IN PRISON FIRE AT COLUMBUS; COUNTY DEATH TOLL SIX

London Naval Conference Adjourns

Treaty Signed By Five Nations; United States To Scrap Three Ships

Adjournment Result Of Three Months, One Day Of Negotiations

AMERICAN FIRST TO SIGN LIMITING PACT

Nine Battleships Will Be Scrapped; U. S. To Reach Parity With England

LONDON, April 22.—The five-power naval conference adjourned at 1:18 p. m. after delegates of the five nations had signed a treaty limiting and reducing the navies of Great Britain, the United States and Japan, and setting restrictions on those of France and Italy.

The adjournment came after three months and one day of negotiations, during which many times the parley seemed on the verge of almost complete failure. Col. Henry L. Stimson, American secretary of state and delegation head, was the first to sign the treaty.

Colonel Stimson, shortly after noon signed the treaty of limitation and reducing evolved at the naval conference after three months and one day of negotiation.

The other six Americans followed. Colonel Stimson in rapid succession, signed the treaty. The treaty was signed at 12:40 p. m., after heads of the national delegations had made their closing speeches, expressing satisfaction with the treaty and the hope that the work it began would be continued.

By terms of the naval treaty signed by representatives of the five powers, the United States should have achieved parity with Great Britain by the date of its expiration, December 31, 1936. Japan will occupy at that time a ratio of naval power somewhere between the five-five-three capital ship ratio agreed upon at the Washington 1922 conference and the ten-ten-seven auxiliary ship ratio which the Tokyo delegation sought at the beginning of this conference.

Nine battleships are to be scrapped, or, in the case of three, converted to training vessels, and a five-year capital ship construction holiday is decreed. The ships to be scrapped are, for the United States, the Arkansas and the Wyoming, while Great Britain will abandon the Bembow, the Iron Duke, the Marlborough, the Emperor of India and the Tiger; Japan will scrap the Hi-yel.

Under the treaty the United States may have 18,000 tons of large cruisers, Great Britain 14,000 tons, and Japan 10,000 tons. Small cruisers, the United States may have 143,500 tons, Great Britain 192,200 tons, and Japan 160,450 tons. Destroyer tonnage is set at: The United States, 150,000 tons; Great Britain, 150,000 tons; and Japan, 150,500 tons. Each of the three powers agrees to keep its submarine tonnage within 52,700.

Neither France nor Italy is signatory to that section of the treaty limiting cruisers and auxiliary craft, and a safeguarding clause has therefore been inserted which will allow either of the three powers to increase its program, the others increasing theirs proportionately, should a continental naval race develop.

France and Italy signed sections of the treaty fixing a capital ship holiday, prescribing rules of submarine warfare, and relating to less important phases of disarmament.

Formal signing of the treaty occupied less than half an hour. Adjournment was taken at 1:18 p. m., after a less than three-hour meeting in which the chief delegates in formal addresses had expressed their gratification in their handwork, declared that they had not been able to go as far as they wished, but expressed hope that further negotiations in the future would remove obstacles to complete five power agreement on limitation and reduction.

In an opening address Mr. MacDonald, who as chairman piloted the conference past the dangerous shoals which threatened it from the very beginning, announced that the 1931 conference provided for by the Washington treaty would not be held but that the next naval conference would take place in 1935, "unless events of such a happy nature take place meanwhile that it be not required."

POPULATION MAY TOTAL 12,500 IN CITY THIS YEAR

Estimates Compiled Here According To Number Of School Pupils

PROGRESS REPORTED IN CENSUS TALLIES

Enumerators Experience Some Difficulty; Many Persons Unprepared

Salem's population should be approximately 12,500, when the census reports are in, according to an estimate based upon the number of children in city schools.

The number of school pupils, multiplied by five, is usually a fairly accurate estimate of population, according to J. S. Alan, superintendent of Salem schools.

The 1930 average enrollment is 2,500 pupils, according to Alan. This would make the population of Salem 12,500, according to the figures.

In 1920, at the time of the last census, there were 2,636 children in the schools, which indicated the population as 13,180.

In April, 1929, there were 2,333 pupils in attendance in Salem schools and in April 1930 there are 2,334, an increase of one pupil, Alan states.

Census headquarters, at East Liverpool, report the tally progressing in Salem, but that enumerators are experiencing difficulty in having to return to homes to get the necessary information.

In many cases the residents of a dwelling were not at home and in (Continued on Page 3)

MAN BURNED IN FIRE IN SALEM MONDAY NIGHT

Peter Dragish Reported In Serious Condition At Home Here

Peter Dragish, 187, West State st., was badly burned about the arms and face when gasoline, with which he was cleaning clothing, exploded in a room of his home Monday evening.

The fire department was called to extinguish the blaze which followed. Little damage resulted, according to Fire Chief Vincent L. Malloy.

Dragish is at his home and while his condition is not considered critical, it is serious.

Chief Malloy issued a warning today against the use of explosive fluids in homes for cleaning purposes.

"This is the second instance, recently, in Salem where a person has been burned in this manner," the chief stated.

"Never, under any consideration, use these fluids in the home regardless of what you think have been precautions. Always take your cleaning outside of the house," the chief warned.

"National statistics show that many people are badly burned in the nation in a year's time from similar explosions and may lose their lives," he added.

Senate To Act On Naval Agreement

WASHINGTON, April 22.—President Hoover announced today that the London naval agreement would be sent to the senate for ratification immediately upon its arrival in Washington.

Improvised Morgue Scene Of Hasty Operations As Bodies Of Convicts Pile Up Rapidly

Remains Of 276 Victims In Penitentiary Fire Are Identified

COLUMBUS, April 22.—Known only by their numbers, the bodies of 317 convicts, smacked and charred by the most disastrous fire in the history of penitentiaries lay in the improvised morgue in the horticulture building at the Ohio State fair grounds today.

Shortly after dawn, between 70 and 80 embalmers came into the structure and began work rapidly upon the forms that had once been men. Working under handicaps, they systematically arranged the corpses, temporarily, as far as they were concerned, nameless.

Of the dead, 276 have been identified and the bodies of these will be turned over to relatives, who

Increase Shown In County Home Census

Rogers village, in Columbiana county, has an increase of from 241, in 1920, to 270 in 1930.

In Carroll county, which is also in the census district, Malvern has shown an increase of from 979 to 1,106 in the past 10 years.

Dellroy, Carroll county, has increased from 338 to 342.

It is generally believed that a number of those who entered pleas of not guilty when arraigned Monday will change their pleas to that of guilty when their cases are called for trial.

It was indicated today that the case of Harry W. Kushing of Pittsburgh, charged with murder in the second degree, as a result of the death of Deputy Sheriff James F. Elliott April 12, will not go to trial before May 12.

HOOVER LETTERS ASK LEADER TO AVOID DEFICITS

Communications Sent To Committeemen; Warns Against Expenses

WASHINGTON, April 22.—Congressional leaders have received letters from President Hoover that are understood to warn against excessive appropriations as a threat to the slender surplus in prospect for this and the next fiscal years.

The presidential communications were sent to Senator Jones of Washington and Representative Wood of Indiana, chairman of the senate and house appropriations committee. Neither would reveal the contents of the letters, beyond saying that they dealt with appropriation matters.

Jones indicated, however, an intention of making his letter public soon, possibly today, by reading it into the congressional record. He said he felt that the information it contained should be given to the people.

Twice before, Mr. Hoover has called the attention of congress to the condition of the national treasury and warned that appropriations should be held down to a minimum, if a deficit is to be avoided.

The first occasion aroused a great deal of criticism in Capitol Hill. The president had pointed out that huge expenditures were proposed in pending bills, and opponents of the administration replied that the chief executive had overlooked the fact that hundreds of measures calling for expenditures are introduced at each session but never enacted into law.

Mr. Hoover's second warning was included in a statement issued a few weeks ago in which he gave a resume of the government's financial condition and predicted a slender surplus this year and next year if appropriations are kept close to budget estimates. At the same time, he said that if all the bills providing for disbursements that have been given committee approval are passed, a deficit will follow.

Speaker Obtained For Farm Meeting

LISBON, April 22.—While no date has been set for the annual dinner of the Columbiana County Farm Bureau, it has been announced that the guest speaker at this event will be M. S. Lives Of 317 Taken When Smoke, Flames Sweep 4 Cell Blocks

Kenneth Crouch, Sentenced For Robbery Of Filling Station Here, Numbered As Victim; 150 In Hospital

One Salem man and five others from Columbiana county were among the 317 Ohio penitentiary convicts whose lives were snuffed out by flame and smoke while they were locked in their cells at the Columbus institution last night.

Kenneth Crouch, of Salem, who was indicted by a Columbiana county grand jury on Jan. 8, 1930 for burglary and larceny and sent to the penitentiary Jan. 23 for a one to 15 year sentence, is among the victims of the tragedy.

Highlights Of Prison Fire

News Flashes Gleaned From Happenings At Tragedy

Theft of less than $10 from a gasoline filling station today had resulted in the death of Kenneth Crouch, Salem youth, one of the victims in the Ohio penitentiary fire disaster.

Crouch, widely known here, several months ago, was arrested by Salem police on a charge of having entered and burglarized a filling station located at the corner of East Second and North Lincoln ave. He was bound to the grand jury where he entered a plea of guilty.

He was sentenced to the Ohio state prison and early today his name was among those listed as having lost their lives in the fire.

The only escape reported at Ohio penitentiary following last night's appalling fire, was Michael Born, 32, sent up from Wood county in 1929 to serve one to 15 years for burglary. He was recorded missing from the hospital, where he was treated last night.

The first official action of those investigating last night's death dealing fire in Ohio penitentiary was taken today when Prison Guard Watkinson was suspended from duty. Watkinson was one of two guards on duty in the cell block where most of the 317 fatalities occurred.

The wish which Albert Holland, 24, of Steubenville expressed when he entered Ohio penitentiary yesterday is fulfilled. Facing sentence from six to 30 years for burglary, Holland, who was sent up from Coshocton county told prison (Continued on Page 4)

WET LEADER IN LOBBY HEARING

Opponent To Prohibition Gives Testimony Before Senate Committee

WASHINGTON, April 22.—Henry H. Curran, president of the association against the prohibition amendment, testified before the senate lobby committee today that his organization had contributed $11,000 to the 1926 campaign of Senator Blaine, Republican, Wisconsin, a member of the committee, and a wet.

Curran also said that $29,000 had been spent in advocating repeal of the state prohibition enforcement laws in Wisconsin.

The witness gave the membership of the association as 11,098 with the majority of its members in New York, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and other eastern states.

Blaine was present when Curran testified that funds had been contributed to aid in his election to the senate. Curran said he thought the Wisconsin senator could have won "without us."

Women Plan Annual Convention July 2

The state convention of junior groups of the Women's Benefit association will be held July 2, at Alliance.

Plans for this event will be made at a union meeting of reviews to night at Alliance with Mrs. Catherine Schindler, of Cleveland, district deputy, presiding.

The Salem junior organization probably will be represented at this meeting.

Samuel Mann, East Liverpool, serving a one to five year sentence for the manufacture of intoxicating liquor; John Eckler, serving five to 30 years for burglary; Roy Wallen, near Salineville, serving life for murder of Rodney Ogle; Bud Lee, East Liverpool, serving one to 2 years for auto theft and T. E. Dolby, Wellsville, sentenced after an indictment charging him with bringing instruments into the county jail to aid an attempted jail break were the other Columbiana county men to lose lives.

More than 150 other prisoners were in the penitentiary hospital, and from 60 to 70 of these were in a critical condition from burns and from smoke they inhaled while fire raged in parts of four cell blocks.

The penitentiary housed 4,300 convicts, some 2,500 above the capacity for which it was intended, when the fire, believed of incendiary origin, and fanned by a stiff wind, swept through the upper tiers of the four blocks, spreading death and suffering in its wake.

The flames were discovered shortly before 5:30 p. m. within several hours the fire had been brought under control but the suffocating smoke continued to take its toll among the convicts. In the adjoining cell blocks men screamed to be released. And when the prison officials capitulated their demands the wide penitentiary yard became a streaming mass of gray clothed men.

Before two hours had passed this mass of men, picking their way among countless bodies spread over the yard, became a threatening menace. Some of them cut the fire hose which continued to play upon flames that spread to the prison cotten and woolen mills. Others hurled stones and slugged the guards that were trying to maintain order. In the dining hall dishes and tables were upset.

Police Summoned

Every available policeman in Columbus was summoned for duty both within the prison and on the outside. A sub-machine gun in the guardroom protected the entrance to the prison yard.

Two companies of regular army troops and 1500 Ohio National guardsmen were stationed at strategic places about the penitentiary. Every guard on both day and night shift was on duty.

And still the thousands of milling prisoners in the yard refused to be quieted. When they were ordered to assemble in the dining room many refused. Later they were ordered into the remaining cell blocks and dormitories but they insisted upon staying in the yard, crowding about the bodies which were arranged in long rows five and six deep.

Except for minor disturbances there was no trouble, however. About five hours after the fire was brought under control the ranks of scantily clad convicts began to thin out and at midnight only a few of them were left in the yard.

Beacon lights and arc lamps, placed upon the main wall for protection played down on the ghastly scene. Slowly the work of removing bodies to the fairgrounds proceeded. Far into the early morning hours the official investigation went forward in the private residence of Warden Thomas.

Two hours after the fire started daylight had faded away and weary, troubled men worked on under the rays of the arc lights that gave the prison yard a dismal appearance after dark.

Gutters bordering the walks carried the streams of water from the hose lines down to the feet and heads of the dead men stretched (Continued on Page 4)

RETIRED RATTLE-TRAFFIC

Available records indicate that approximately fifteen per cent of all fatal motor vehicle accidents are caused by vehicular defects, most of which are found in automobiles that either have been reclaimed from the junk heap or are lingering too long on their way there. Police organizations have frowned on this type of motor vehicle with a view to eliminating it from the highways and the year 1930 may see the partial fulfillment of their hopes.

Various companies in the automobile industry have made it known that they intend to destroy 400,000 old automobiles at a cost of approximately $15,000,000 in the interests of their business during the present year. Naturally, this will serve the additional purpose of clearing the highways of one of its gravest dangers. A recent study of 694 fatal accidents, made by the National Conference on Street and Highway Safety, showed that defective mechanism was partly or wholly responsible for 104 of the fatalities. The evidence of these figures is sufficient to show the menace of decrepit cars.

Poor brakes, defective steering apparatus and lack of power are among the more serious defects common to the rattle-trap car. Whole worn-out vehicles might be perfectly safe on untraveled roads, when placed in competition with newer types of cars they are dangerous. In the cases of brakes, especially, is this true.

The buying activities of the automobile manufacturers will not begin to eliminate all the old cars. The number is increasing constantly and public cooperation is necessary to keep them from becoming dangerous. After all, the driver knows best when his car is worn out. It is his responsibility to keep it in repair as long as possible and to dispose of it when its usefulness is exhausted.

INVESTIGATIONS

Recent years in American political life have seen the growth of a new craze—investigations. All sorts of things, people and organizations are ordered under the glass by this and that legislative committee with practically the same result in every case. There is a great deal of talk, accusations are made freely and the whole affair ends with increased ill feeling as the only tangible result.

Henry H. Curran, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, is one of the more recent choices of the Senate lobby committee for the investigating process. Mr. Curran has complained about what he considers the unjustified action of the committee in investigating private and confidential files through the use of the subpoena. It is a case which brings to bear evidence from many instances of the same nature in the past.

The Supreme Court has upheld the right of both the Senate and the House to investigate respondents' records, but with this implied reservation, the investigation shall be more than fishing in the hope that something will turn up. That is plainly what is taking place in Mr. Curran's case; the investigators know of nothing definite which might be included in his files, but they are reasonably hopeful that something useful will be uncovered.

It is unfortunate in the extreme that any objection to an investigating process is interpreted as an admission of guilt. Mr. Curran's files are not being disturbed and if they contain nothing relevant to the purpose of the investigation he should have nothing to fear. The least that can be done, however, in fairness to him and to the principle of investigation search without a definite motive is to insist that the files of the dry organizations be submitted to the same scrutiny. If these organizations, in turn, have some ideas concerning possible mines of information in other wet organizations, it should be their privilege to demand that they be probed and so on to the satisfaction of all.

The efficacy of investigation is entirely dependent upon the good sense with which it is conducted. If the method of procedure is such that the public is irritated, an investigation can accomplish little, regardless of how much evil is uncovered. Most important of all is the lack of prestige which results from too many futile investigations.

The bookings of the United States Lines, Inc., are $300,000 ahead this year of what they were at this time last year, and the preferred accommodations on the flagship of the lines, the Leviathan, have been booked through the summer and up into the early fall. It begins to look as though the country, at least that part of it given to European travel, has staged a recovery from the speculative orgy of last fall.

What Others Say

BUSINESS - COMMODITY PRICES Before business and industry can be expected to recover definitely from the effects of a serious recession three underlying conditions are nearly always indispensable. There must be at least normal ease in the credit situation; public confidence must have been restored; commodity prices must have been stabilized.

It has been clear for some time that the first two of these three prerequisites have been met. Money rates in all world centers have declined sharply in the last five months, with bankers' acceptances falling from their peak of 5-1/2 per cent to 3-1/2 per cent, commercial paper dropping from a maximum of around 6-1/4 per cent last fall to 4 per cent, and the New York Federal Reserve discount rate reducing from its 1929 high of 6 per cent to a current level of 3-1/2 per cent. As to public confidence, there is perhaps no better measure of that than is revealed in the stock market, where security prices have retrieved approximately 50 per cent of the losses sustained in the October-November crash. Indeed, in conservative quarters the question has been raised recently as to whether public confidence, as measured by the activity of the stock market, might not be, if anything, leaning in the direction of over-enthusiasm.

There now seems good reason to believe that the decline in commodity prices which set in eight months ago has at last spent itself. Professor Irving Fisher's wholesale price index, based on two hundred representative commodities, reached its 1929 peak last July, when it stood at 95.6 per cent of the base average level of 1925. From that point on it fell almost without interruption through the first week in March of this year, when it touched 91 per cent, a gross decline of 7.6 points for the seven months. The beginning of March saw this price trend flatten out, but it was not until the week ended April 4 that the first definite upturn made its appearance. That week saw the Fisher index recover from its minimum of 90.4 to 90.8. This reversal of the trend, while it may not mark the beginning of a vigorous upswing in prices, suggests strongly—especially when considered in conjunction with the stability of the index throughout the four preceding weeks—that the major decline in commodity prices has come to an end. On the fairly safe assumption that this is true, it would appear that at last the three handicaps in the way of business recovery have been removed. —New York Herald Tribune.

HEALTH

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland

DISEASES OF TEETH

That there are unknown factors underlying diseases of the teeth, besides pyorrhea and tooth decay, is a fact that has been recognized for some time.

Now it has been announced that under the direction of the Columbia School of Dental and Oral Surgery, a three-year program of research in tooth decay and diseases of the teeth has been undertaken.

There is to be a co-operative program of the Columbia Dental School with a research group at Yale, under the direction of the Rockefeller Foundation, and with other research workers in this country and Europe. It is hoped that far-reaching results will be obtained in seeking the causes of diseases of the teeth and tooth decay.

For many years the dental and medical professions have recognized the fact that dental diseases, such as pyorrhea and dental decay, have their origin in faults of nutrition and diseases of the system. The old theory was that decay of the teeth was due alone to the acid films which form on the teeth by fermentation of food particles. But many persons were found to be possessed of teeth which never decayed even though these persons never used a toothbrush. Others brush their teeth often and have tooth decay.

It is to be hoped that such a study will bring a discovery of a means to prevent these defects. Tooth decay and pyorrhea are almost as prevalent today as the common cold. Think of the thousands who would be benefited in health by the possession of sound teeth.

From earliest childhood care of the teeth is most important. Infant feeding and continued watchful care of the diet of the growing child are essential for strong teeth in later life.

It is very necessary to know something about the nutritive value of foods in arranging the family diet. It has a direct bearing upon strong bones and sound teeth.

To a great extent, dental decay can be avoided by keeping the teeth clean. They should be brushed night and morning with a stiff brush. Food must not be allowed to collect between them.

These spaces afford lodging places for food and for bacteria to develop. Use a quill toothpick or dental floss to remove food particles from between the teeth. A good antiseptic mouth wash is excellent, but warm water and salt make a very good mouth wash.

Diseased teeth and broken teeth are the common cause of infections in the system and such infections may bring on degenerative diseases, with undermining of the general health. By regular visits to a dentist once or twice a year disease and decay of the teeth and gums are preventable. In our great cities are splendid hospitals and clinics where the teeth of the poor are attended to free of charge. There is scarcely anyone who cannot have treatment of the teeth.

OUR READERS

TO PREACH SERMON

Editor The News:

For the first time in my life, I have received a formal invitation to occupy a church pulpit and say anything I want to say on any problem involving public welfare.

My thanks are extended to Rev. Robert A. White, pastor of St. John's A. M. E. church, East High st., for the invitation to speak on next Sunday, April 27, at 3:30.

Mayor John M. Davidson occupied the pulpit last Sunday. The church was not full, but I think it was not well advertised. Inasmuch as this may be my "farewell sermon," very naturally, I want thousands to come and hear me.

For more than a half century, I have made an earnest study of our government's social and economic systems, and I here and now make bold to declare that our civilization needs civilizing, our politics humanizing, and our economics economicizing. All who cheer and think, will agree that this arraignment is timely and just.

What are we, the common people, going to do about it? That question is ringing in my ears; and on next Sunday you can hear my prescription; my remedy.

If the ministers of the churches in Salem think it would be worthwhile, I would thank them to announce my talk at their morning services.

My basic premises will be taken from the Bible, and these, by reason, logic and observation, will, in my opinion, inevitably lead to the belief that the "Days of Trouble," foretold by the old prophets, are here right now. If you doubt it, read Revelations.

The modification of some church custom will be suggested. For example: It is estimated that over seven million men and women are now in enforced idleness, in a land of plenty. This is a national crime. These out of work are especially invited, and if the collection is taken, not one of them shall put in a penny. But the preacher, who is never out of a job, will be compelled to open his purse and contribute liberally. This ought to be popular with the laymen.

Let us reason together and seek the truth. The truth will make us free. CHARLES BONSALE

The Stars Say

For Wednesday, April 23 A day of some progress, owing to highly stimulating energies is suggested from the predominant planetary vibrations. Under the Martian impetus there may be a tendency to initiative and bold strokes of enterprise, but for the adverse position of Neptune, opposed by Luna, will bring a retarding and critical influence to all new ventures. There may be petty anxieties and changes, but employment is under a propitious rule for advancement and favors.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of some opportunities and much eagerness to take advantage of them, but there are frustrating influences at work, which may especially bear rule on new undertakings. However, those in the employment of others may hope for advantages and some favors.

A child born on this day should be active, energetic and resourceful, but may succeed better in the employment of others than on its own initiative.

Highlights Of Ohio History

By J. H. GALBRAITH

Because of their similar views regarding slavery and the fugitive slave law, Salmon P. Chase and General Rolf Brinkerhoff became very close friends and this friendship continued in the years from the time Chase was governor until after he had been made chief justice of the supreme court. It was broken by reason of the chief justice's persistence in his ambition to be president, which could brook no opposition.

One afternoon while Johnson was still president Brinkerhoff, being in Washington on business, chanced to meet Justice Chase as the latter was walking home from his office. Mr. Chase was then living at the home of his daughter, the wife of Senator Sprague of Rhode Island, and when he came to the Sprague residence, Chase urged the general to come in as the Spragues were away and he wished to talk over political matters with him.

Ordering refreshments, Chase sat long with his Ohio friend, talking over politics in general and finally came to the presidential nomination. He said he believed he could be nominated and elected to succeed Johnson. Brinkerhoff listened in silence. He knew Chase's inability to take advice contrary to his wishes with good grace, and he hoped to avoid making an expression but when he was asked for his opinion, he was too honest not to tell the truth.

He told Chase frankly that in his opinion he could never reach the presidency. Many of his best friends, who might, under other conditions, be glad to see him candidate, sincerely wanted him to remain where he was; he was needed there. There had been a great war and the "bullet headed" soldiers, now back in private life, would be for soldier candidates and it was expected that for some years the soldier vote would dominate.

Chase, as expected, manifested some indignation at this and the two parted, with Chase in a "huff." Brinkerhoff was frequently in the chamber when the Johnson impeachment trial was in progress and Chase must have noticed him, but no word or sign of recognition was given. There was estrangement.

Some years later Brinkerhoff saw Chase on the streets of Washington, stooped and showing the marks of age. His appearance aroused sympathy, and the general decided to call upon him. This time he was cordially received. Apparently the ambition to become president had at last died. They parted good friends but never met again.

W. H. Crawford Conducted Fight For County Highway

Death Of Williamsport Man Recalls Efforts To Win Roads

LISBON, April 22.—The death of William H. Crawford, aged 78 years at Williamsport, Sunday, has recalled the fact that in 1873 he advocated and successfully conducted a road fight in Eikrun, Madison and St. Clair townships to have a road designated that has since been improved as a state highway and known as the East Liverpool-Youngstown rd.

Mr. Crawford and his associates in those townships sought to have this road designated, but he was opposed by another group, the latter desiring the road to be placed elsewhere. Through the efforts of Crawford a fund of $900 was raised among the farmers in these three townships, and it had been determined by the county commissioners that whichever group would deposit $900 first would win the road. Crawford drove to Lisbon one Saturday night and deposited the money in the Firestone bank. The opposing group made a like deposit the following Monday morning.

Egypt Plans Attack On Adverse Rumors

CAIRO, April 22.—A conspiracy to depreciate Egypt as a tourist resort on the part of other famous tourist centers is believed to exist by the society for tourist development here.

This organization which is a powerful and far flung institution claims that false rumors have been maliciously spread by those interested in other famous winter resorts.

Plagues and epidemics, political uprisings, anarchy, and other evils said to exist in Egypt are among these false rumors, the society says and the effect has been to prevent many persons from taking winter cruises to this country.

A campaign of counter-propaganda is being planned on extensive lines.

Tariff Boosts Cost Of Living In Egypt

CAIRO, April 22.—Increased prices of all commodities have gone into effect in Egypt.

This is the immediate result of the new tariff list which raises the duty on almost everything coming into the country.

Housewives have been thrown into a panic by the heavy increases in food prices. Salaries and incomes remain the same, the public complains, while the cost of living soars beyond reason.

The port of accommodations at Alexandria have proved insufficient for the heavy orders of goods which have been shipped to Egypt here to arrive before the new tariff should go into effect.

Little Change In Petroleum Situation

AUSTIN, TEXAS, April 22.—There was little change in the Texas petroleum situation during February, according to Bernard Nichols, editor of the Texas Business Review, just issued.

"The daily average flow," Nichols said, "remained almost unchanged and field work showed the same activity. No further price reductions for crude made, but gasoline was marked down in some areas. A total of 23,772,000 barrels of crude were produced in February as against 22,902,000 barrels in February 1929."

AGENTS TO HOLD EXPENSE PROBES

Senate Funds Group Will Investigate Complaints From Two States

WASHINGTON, April 22.—Secret agents of the senate campaign funds committee were under orders today to proceed to Illinois and Pennsylvania and investigate complaints of excessive campaign expenditures that have been received from those states.

In other cases, the committee does not intend to wait until formal complaints have been made before checking up on the disbursements of senatorial candidates, but will make a searching inquiry into every senate contest and when circumstances warrant will hold public hearings.

Chairman Nye made these announcements late yesterday after a brief meeting of the committee. He said that every senatorial campaign will be open to the inspection of the committee and reiterated with emphasis that hearings will be conducted only when careful preliminary examinations show them to be justified.

In the Illinois primary, Rep. Ruth Hanna McCormick defeated Senator Charles S. Deneen for the Republican senatorial nomination. Complaints alleging excessive expenditures against both candidates have been received.

"Konjola Did What All Else Failed To Do"

Various H's That Ruled For 18 Months Are Ended By This New Medicine

MRS. L. D. JOHNSTON

"In my case Konjola did what all else I tried failed to do," said Mrs. L. D. Johnston, West Jefferson, Ohio, near Columbus. "My appetite failed completely, and what little I did force myself to eat caused intense stomach pains. I always felt tired and worn out; had dizzy spells and terrible headaches that lasted for days at a time. I was just sick all over and felt miserable."

"But what was I to do? Not a medicine I tried helped me a particle. A friend who knew my condition, highly recommended Konjola. I decided to take her advice. Well, to make a long story short, six bottles of this splendid medicine completely ended everyone of my health troubles. I am gaining in weight and feeling simply great. Just to be rid of these terrible headaches is joy in itself. I feel it my duty to endorse such a wonderful medicine."

When taken for six to eight weeks Konjola, the new and different medicine, will work wonders that will astonish those who suffer from stubborn ill of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and of rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness.

Konjola is sold in Salem, Ohio at The J. H. Leach Drug Co. Three Stores, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.—Adv.

BETTMAN PLACED IN FULL CHARGE OF FIRE INQUIRY

Governor Cooper Halts Effort To Remove Warden Thomas

COLUMBUS, O., April 22.—An investigation of the Ohio penitentiary fire, launched today by Franklin county Prosecutor John Chester, Jr., was halted abruptly when Governor Cooper directed State Attorney General Gilbert Bettman to take charge of the inquiry. Chester had recommended that Warden Preston Thomas be suspended temporarily, pending investigation, and had ordered telephones removed from the warden's office.

Several state officials protested Chester's action, and this was followed by the governor's announcement designating Bettman as the chief investigator.

Commenting on the governor's action, Chester said "this deprives the prosecutor of his power and placed the entire power in the hands of the attorney general."

Governor Cooper arrived at the penitentiary during the morning. Accompanied by First Assistant Attorney General Earl C. Shively and Assistant Attorney General Joseph Godwin, he went to the second floor of the warden's residence where the investigation, launched last night, was continued.

Official inquiry was launched by State Welfare Director H. H. Griswold.

Turning the living room of Warden P. E. Thomas residence at the prison into a courtroom, Director Griswold questioned six prison officials, guards, firemen and prisoners in hope of fixing responsibility for the blaze and for the immense death toll.

Testimony tended to indicate that prison guards did not immediately realize the seriousness of the fire and its possible consequences and directed their initial efforts to guarding the prison to prevent possible outbreak.

After inspection of the fire scene the board of inquiry adjourned to the prison record office which had been converted into a courtroom to the official investigation.

The board was composed of Governor Cooper; Earl C. Shively, first assistant attorney general; Joseph Godwin and Harry G. Levy, assistant attorneys general; County Prosecutor John L. Chester, Jr.; Welfare Director H. H. Griswold and George Edge and Frank Reinhard, members of the state clemency board.

Big gray blankets were spread profusely over the green grass. The lawn just outside the guard room filled rapidly. Bodies were laid upon the blankets and men who put them there dashed back by two and four to the house of death.

"Make room for this man. He's alive. Gangway," came the cry from a little group hurrying along the walk toward the hospital. The lines of prisoners separated. They made room for the man who had a chance to live.

But the cries of hope became few and expressions of horror increased.

Far out in the yard the grass was being covered with the bodies of other dead. Fifteen of them at first, then twice that number and so on until the turf was covered with them.

Scenes of confusion and terror accompanied the outburst of the flames. They started in the north-west corner of a new building of cell blocks, part of which still was under construction. It was in this new part that the fire originated, not more than half an hour after a gang of prisoners working on the job returned to their cells.

Apparently the flames broke out in several places simultaneously, official said. Everything pointed to incendiary, they indicated.

Liston G. Schooley, Cleveland councilman who is serving a term for participation in a Cleveland playground fraud, was at work in the deputy warden's office on the opposite side of the prison yard. He saw smoke rising from the cell block.

About the same time Charley Shokley, a prisoner from Toledo, and one of those quartered in the damaged building sounded an alarm on Range Two of Section H. Shokley, a practical joker was not taken seriously by his fellow convicts until they saw the red reflection in the windows of a manufacturing plant near the penitentiary.

Flames Spread Rapidly

Then a great stream emanated from Sections G and H. In each there were six ranges of 17 cells housing four prisoners to the cell. The flames and the smoke were eating toward them rapidly.

William C. Baldwin and Tom Little, guard captains, both of Columbus were sitting in the guard room waiting to go on their night shift. When the word reached them they dashed to the flaming building with keys to the cells.

At the same time other guards ran to the deputies' office where Schooley, in the absence of other officers began handing out orders. He issued all the keys he had and, realizing the danger, commanded prisoners attached to the hospital to prepare for emergency.

Guards Baldwin and Little rushed into the smoke-filled building, took the keys to the ranges from the day guards and started unlocking cells as quickly as they could. Meanwhile fire companies, answering to four alarms spread every foot of hose available.

As the guards released convicts from the first range they climbed to the second, followed by some of the prisoners. The smoke was becoming more dense every minute. The second range the imprisoned men were choking and gasping for breath. But as they were released many joined in the rescue work.

The situation on the third tier was worse. Dozens of the prisoners were far gone that they could not be revived when carried into the yard.

But the guards and the convicts who turned to the rescue work went on. They frantically were augmented by firemen. After he had unlocked the last cell on the fourth range, Little collapsed. Four inmates carried him out. Baldwin struggled on to the out on the grass. Still more bodies came from the flame swept sixth range, borne on blankets or stretchers or anything that could be used.

Prisoners Start Disturbance

It was about this time that muttering prisoners, chilled to the bone in the night air because they would not obey orders to go inside, started the disturbances that caused so much alarm.

The effects of warm coffee served during the rescue operations and consumed freely by hundreds who were idling about as well as those who were working had worn off when dark fell. But it was mostly the idle prisoners who were inclined to cause trouble. They assembled in small groups in different parts of the prison yard. The guards could do nothing with them. Stones flew through the air occasionally, and once a band of men rushed a gasoline supply truck that had been brought into the yard and tried to set it afire. Several prisoners intervened, were pelted with tin cups and dashed away but the inclination to burn the gasoline truck was broken up.

Beyond the gates, in the office of Warden Thomas, in the warden's residence, in the record room and in the secretary's office, state and county officials, armed guardsmen and troopers were prepared for whatever might happen.

Outside the smoke swelled building the scene resembled a field of battle strewn with corpses.

At first the prisoners who had escaped death emerged in pairs carrying a comrade by the arms and feet. They hurried across a small clearing covered with new lumber and dropped the victims into the grass.

Then they knelt beside the choked men, turned them on their stomachs and applied methods of resuscitation. For a while this revived the victims but soon they came so fast that the band of convicts found themselves stumbling over each other, dropping the men they had carried out and hurrying back for others.

Groans and feeble cries from the lips of the victims and words of encouragement and shrieks of terror from the men who were working over them rose from the ground. Seared and blackened faces bespoke the futility of the nursing over men who already were dead.

Big gray blankets were spread profusely over the green grass. The lawn just outside the guard room filled rapidly. Bodies were laid upon the blankets and men who put them there dashed back by two and four to the house of death.

"Make room for this man. He's alive. Gangway," came the cry from a little group hurrying along the walk toward the hospital. The lines of prisoners separated. They made room for the man who had a chance to live.

But the cries of hope became few and expressions of horror increased.

Far out in the yard the grass was being covered with the bodies of other dead. Fifteen of them at first, then twice that number and so on until the turf was covered with them.

Scenes of confusion and terror accompanied the outburst of the flames. They started in the north-west corner of a new building of cell blocks, part of which still was under construction. It was in this new part that the fire originated, not more than half an hour after a gang of prisoners working on the job returned to their cells.

Apparently the flames broke out in several places simultaneously, official said. Everything pointed to incendiary, they indicated.

Liston G. Schooley, Cleveland councilman who is serving a term for participation in a Cleveland playground fraud, was at work in the deputy warden's office on the opposite side of the prison yard. He saw smoke rising from the cell block.

About the same time Charley Shokley, a prisoner from Toledo, and one of those quartered in the damaged building sounded an alarm on Range Two of Section H. Shokley, a practical joker was not taken seriously by his fellow convicts until they saw the red reflection in the windows of a manufacturing plant near the penitentiary.

Flames Spread Rapidly

Then a great stream emanated from Sections G and H. In each there were six ranges of 17 cells housing four prisoners to the cell. The flames and the smoke were eating toward them rapidly.

William C. Baldwin and Tom Little, guard captains, both of Columbus were sitting in the guard room waiting to go on their night shift. When the word reached them they dashed to the flaming building with keys to the cells.

At the same time other guards ran to the deputies' office where Schooley, in the absence of other officers began handing out orders. He issued all the keys he had and, realizing the danger, commanded prisoners attached to the hospital to prepare for emergency.

Guards Baldwin and Little rushed into the smoke-filled building, took the keys to the ranges from the day guards and started unlocking cells as quickly as they could. Meanwhile fire companies, answering to four alarms spread every foot of hose available.

As the guards released convicts from the first range they climbed to the second, followed by some of the prisoners. The smoke was becoming more dense every minute. The second range the imprisoned men were choking and gasping for breath. But as they were released many joined in the rescue work.

The situation on the third tier was worse. Dozens of the prisoners were far gone that they could not be revived when carried into the yard.

But the guards and the convicts who turned to the rescue work went on. They frantically were augmented by firemen. After he had unlocked the last cell on the fourth range, Little collapsed. Four inmates carried him out. Baldwin struggled on to the fifth tier. Then he too collapsed and was carried to the penitentiary hospital in the arms of convicts.

Deaths Takes Toll

On the fourth and fifth ranges death was taking its toll rapidly. The lungs of the trapped men were filled with smoke. Ghastly sights greeted the rescuers. Suffocated men lay on the floor clutching with pale, white fingers at the bars that held them in.

Others were stretched across and under their bunks. Some had tried to bury their heads in the lavatories in the cells. And still others had grabbed their blankets or torn their shirts from their backs to drench them with water and place them over their heads.

The impenetrable smoke hung from the ceiling to within six inches of the floor. Streams of water switched through the mesh and the iron bars and formed rivulets in which the faces of fallen men were buried.

Hundreds had been carried from the structure and above the heads of the rescuers in the sixth and last range were more than a hundred others who could not possibly be saved. On this range the bed mattresses and the cot were masses of flames. Firemen and convicts pushed on only in the hope of recovering the bodies before the fire consumed them.

Locks on the cells were battered away with sledge hammers. The mesh walls of the ranges were cut away with wire cutters. Hose lines, winding a path up the flights of stairs got in the road of stumbling men with limp burdens in their arms.

Electricians, aided by trusties, climbed to the guard tower atop the front wall and installed floodlights that illuminated nearly every corner of the yard. Policemen patrolled the walks, prison guards were ready with pointed weapons.

Occasionally among the milling prisoners could be seen the striped cap of a member of First "K" company, that notorious band of convicts ordinarily kept under close lock and key because of their tendency to start trouble on the least provocation. But the men apparently convinced themselves that there was little to be gained by adding to the appalling situation created by the fire. The groups thinned out.

In the outside world there was many a family whose anxiety could not be quieted. Out of the prison population of more than 4,000, each prisoner who escaped the fate of those in Companies G and H was an anxious to spread the word that he was safe as his relatives were hopeful of receiving it.

Much of this reassuring news was transmitted by telephone. Telephone calls and telegrams poured in from every quarter. The trustees in the record room, already burdened with the task of checking the dead, worked equally hard to send replies to every query.

While the disaster was revealing itself at its worst, pandemonium reigned without as well as within the prison walls. Black smoke, rolling in clouds from the roof of the damaged cell blocks was the first signal to the outside world of the impending catastrophe. Spectators gathered rapidly and within a few minutes forced a serious handicap upon the officials trying to maintain order.

The crowds surged up to the lawn fronting the prison and policemen battled furiously against them. Automobile traffic jammed the surrounding streets.

A company of troops finally was called into action to clear West Spring st. on which the penitentiary faces, and other abutting thoroughfares. The troops charged up the street with fixed bayonets. Guards stationed on the outside dropped their rifles and picked up machine guns to drive back the throngs. This maneuvering brought prompt success. It wasn't long until police lines had been established a block from the prison in all directions. Guards, troopers and policemen were stationed 20 feet apart around the four walls.

Prison Overcrowded

Ohio penitentiary was built to accommodate 1,600 prisoners. The population yesterday was 4,000. Overcrowded conditions for years have proved the greatest source of trouble.

The building in which the fire victims met death was comparatively new. The roof was covered with an oil substance that made fuel for the flames. The fire started in the roof and ate a steady path until the entire covering was consumed. The building was constructed of concrete, brick, steel and wood.

Early this morning the scene of death had shifted to the fairgrounds where a small army of undertakers worked through the night preparing bodies for burial. One hundred guardsmen were on duty there, patrolling the grounds to keep away the morbidly curious.

The ruins of the cell block broke into flames again this morning. A fire company quickly quenched the blaze.

HIGHLIGHTS

"I would rather die than go in for six years."

He was among the 300 prisoners suffocated in the fire that swept prison cell blocks last night.

The temporary morgue building was draped in black crepe this morning. Flowers from the state gardens on the fairgrounds were moved into the morgue to soften the grim scene.

A heroine of the fire was Miss Amanda Thomas, daughter of Warden Preston E. Thomas, who maintained a level head during the disaster. She directed work in the office of the penitentiary.

The Rev. K. E. Wall, Protestant chaplain and the Rev. Father Albert O'Brien worked hand in hand, together with dominican sisters from St. Rose convent and sisters of the Holy Cross order at Mt. Carmel. Among the victims also went graduate nurses, mingling with white coated doctors from all the hospitals of the city.

By an irony of chance, all the prisoners awaiting execution in death row escaped. When the blaze menaced their cells, they were transferred to the solitary confinement section.

A pet kitten, was saved by Howard Crandall, a trusty from Cuyahoga county. Rushing in to aid stricken men, he saw the kitten, apparently suffocated on the floor. He stuffed it in his pocket and in the prison yard revived it.

Jack Cannon of Columbus, All-American guard of Notre Dame university, assisted in the embalming of victims. He arrived at the fairgrounds shortly after the first of the bodies had been carried in.

More than a score of murderers, serving life terms, met death in the fire. Practically all of the 317 victims of the blaze were long termers, many being sentenced to 25 and 30 years. Convicted robbers and burglars led the list of those killed.

The state clemency board announced that 198 Ohio penitentiary prisoners would be transferred immediately to the London prison farm. As soon as possible 500 more will be transferred to London.

MARYSVILLE—The old adage, like father like son, was transformed to "like wife, like husband" at the Ohio reformatory for women here. The tragic fire found at least a score of women inmates of the reformatory frantic for news from the scene. Later it was learned that their husbands were inmates of the prison.

CHICAGO—Rains southwest and suspects of more brought about early downturns in wheat prices today. There were also reports that the season show practically entire absence of strawgum in Kansas,

20 bushels loss at harvest. Opening unchanged to 1/2 off, wheat later under went a decided general setback. Corn, oats and provisions were easy, with corn starting 1/4 down to 1/2 up, and subsequently leaving near to the initial range.

Believes Columbus Came From Corsica

MARSEILLES, April 22.—Christopher Columbus came from Corsica, according to Canon Castaing of this city, who recently made a statement to this effect. After long study, he has found that historians of the period wrote: "Calvi natus Columbus" which evidently refers to Calvi, Corsica, as the birthplace of the great discoverer. Calvi, he explains, at this particular time, really made one city with Genoa and the inhabitants of this city called him, among other unfavorable epithets, "the Corsican."
Canon Castaing believes that he was the son of a wool-carder and studied at the convent of the Observantines.

Discovery Aid to Science

Dr. William F. Meggers, left, holding a tube containing a hundredth of an ounce of lutecium, the total supply in the United States. Dr. Meggers' assistant, Bourbon Scribner, is shown looking on. By means of an electric spark which was used to throw off the three outer electrons, Dr. Meggers discovered the atomic structure of the element. This was as important a discovery to the scientist as was the discovery some weeks ago of the trans-Neptunian planet.

"SEVEN DAYS' LEAVE"
At The State

"Seven Days' Leave" opened at the State theater yesterday and struck a new note in cinema entertainment.

Here is a play that has not the slightest hint of boy-and-girl love in it anywhere. "Seven Days' Leave" is worthy of the current movie season's laurel tiara for the reason that it is one of the most poignantly human pieces of audible screen production ever projected to the eyes and ears of American audiences.

Based on the successful stage play, "The Old Lady Shows Her Medals," by Sir James M. Barrie, "Seven Days' Leave" gains considerable substance by its transition to the celluloid medium. Its scope, of course, is widened. But in addition to this there is a certain flavor of indescribable forcefulness about it that could not possibly exist in a stage production anywhere. Perhaps this is just that old Barrie whimsy percolating through, much as it did in "Peter Pan." Suffice it to say that one must see and hear this picture to assimilate the full savor of its dramatic substance.

Gary Cooper is starred as the soldier-hero, the lanky Canadian, of the "Black Watch," who is adopted as her son by a pathetic Scotch charwoman of London.

"SALLY"
At The Grand

"Sally," the elaborate vitaphone picture starring Marilyn Miller at the Grand, boasts more than the usual quota of comedians.

Four of the best known funny men of Hollywood are included in the cast of this all-dialect picture, which is entirely in color. They are Joe E. Brown, famous stage and screen laugh-provoker, T. Roy Barnes, who has many comedy roles to his credit, Ford Sterling, who was one of the original Keystone Kops and Jack Duffy, star of innumerable two-reel side-splitters.

"Sally" is adapted from the famous musical comedy in which Miss Miller broke all theatrical box-office records for over three years, and is her first motion picture. Pert Kelton, Alexander Gray, Maude Turner Gordon, E. J. Ratcliffe, Jack Duffy and many others are included in the all-star cast.

Five Special Events To Feature Relay Carnival Here Friday

THE DAY In Sports

OHIO STATE university athletic officials apparently have become tired of repeated setbacks the Scarlet and Gray has received in basketball competition in the Western Conference. Stahl, diminutive but several years, has been selected to coach basketball at the Buckeye school, his appointment being announced late Monday.

The announcement confirmed rumors of an offer current shortly after Stahl's Stivers team won the state basketball championship for the third straight time last March 22, and verified them by Stahl himself. The matter is subject to the approval by the athletic board at its meeting later this week, but no difficulty is expected in that quarter.

STAHL HAS COACHED Stivers teams in football, baseball and basketball for four years. His 1928 football team and 1929 basketball team were undefeated. He will coach freshman basketball, the varsity reserves in football and probably help with freshman baseball. He will probably assist Harold Olsen head basketball coach, in an advisory capacity.

The new Buckeye coach was graduated from University of Illinois in 1926. He earned his varsity letter in baseball as an outfielder and pinch hitter.

PETE SCULLION, playing manager of the Dun Eden park baseball club is losing no time in gathering together his 1930 baseball team. He has made arrangements for at least 20 candidates to appear at the first call to practice sessions. Players from Salem, Alliance, Painesville and other nearby places will be on the team's roster.

Scullion plans to have one of the finest teams seen here in years. Present arrangements call for a game on the first Saturday or Sunday in May following which most games will be played on the home field at Dun Eden park. Some of the country's outstanding road attractions will probably be scheduled.

GEORGE W. DUNN is backer of the team and also acts in capacity of secretary-treasurer while Scullion is playing manager and coach. Fred K. Schuller has been appointed business manager.

COLUMBIANA

Columbiana churches report large Easter attendances at the presentation of interesting programs. At the Lutheran church, a communion service was given in the morning, while in the evening the Daughters of the King rendered the cantata, "The First Easter," under the direction of Miss Martha Zimmerman, with Miss Ethel Lennig at the organ. Solo parts were sung by Mrs. Arthur Lennig, Miss Florence Hively, Mrs. L. R. Wilson and Mrs. Clyde Biddison, while Miss Florence Lipp read the Easter story with musical accompaniment.

The Easter cantata, "Bright Easter Morn," was given Sunday evening at the Methodist church by the choir under the direction of Mrs. Edgar F. Miller. Special music was also given at the morning church service, when Rev. C. R. McMeekin preached on the theme, "Alive Forevermore."

The Epworth league held a sunrise prayer meeting at 6:30 a. m. A sunrise meeting was also held at the Presbyterian church at the same hour, followed by the Sunday school and a church communion service, at which new members were received into the church. Communion services were held at Grace Reformed church.

At the services of the Nazarene church in the school building, a special Easter program was given by the children, and members made sacrificial donations which will be used toward the purchase of a lot for building purposes.

A special music was also a feature of the Sunday services at the Christian church.

Mrs. Ralph Hum and Mrs. Harry Herman entertained the South Side club Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Hum, South Main st., with 10 members present. Following the social hour, at which fancywork was the chief diversion, a dainty lunch was served. Mrs. Ray Fisher will be the next hostess.

The Misses Grace Frye and Mabel Brungard, accompanied by Miss Catherine Frye, Youngstown, spent the week end at Columbus.

William, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Bowles, West Park ave., broke a bone in his left arm Friday evening while at play.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Holloway have begun the erection of a new home on their property, Canfield rd. Isaiah Mowen is the general contractor.

Robert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lamoucha, south of town, broke his right arm Friday, while at play.

The members of Sunset Temple, Pythian Sisters will celebrate their 21st anniversary Wednesday evening in the K. of P. hall. A program will be followed by a social hour.

Walter Ferrall and Lee Bookwalter, students at Ohio State university, Columbus, spent the week end at their parental homes here.

Mrs. Virginia Felger and nephew, Teddy Potts, of Beaver Falls, spent the week end with Columbiana friends.

Mrs. Margaret Wonsatler, Youngstown, is visiting at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Raymond Rock, and family, Woodland ave.

J. J. Steingass has been seriously ill for the past week at the home of his daughter, Mrs. T. B. Hyland.

Star Tracksters Of Entire District Will Compete For Honors

TWENTY Ohio high schools reinforced with their strongest array of track and field talent will concentrate activities on efforts to annex victory laurels in the first annual night relay carnival sponsored by the Salem High School Athletic association under the floodlights of Kelly athletic stadium here Friday.

Believed to be the first event of its kind ever held in the history of American interscholastic track and field activities, the carnival is expected to prove a magnet to the largest gathering of spectators ever assembled in Columbiana county for an early spring scholastic athletic event. Eighteen events, five of them special contests, are scheduled as the day's attractions.

In addition to the usual 13 track and field contests, the quintet of cinderpath events have been arranged as special features to give the meet all the color and glamour of a great interscholastic competition. There will be a one-half mile relay, another of one mile, one of two miles and a fourth scheduled for four miles. The fifth, and one of the most spectacular races scheduled during the day is a sprint medley relay.

Four runners will compose a team in each event. In the 880-run each contestant will run 220 yards and in the mile relay each man will race a quarter-mile. The two-mile event will race for honors for a distance of one full mile each, in the four-mile relay.

First In History Here It will be the first time Salem and other district fans have ever had of the two and four-mile relays and the sprint medley. In this latter race, the first runners will race 220 yards, the second 440, the third 880 and the fourth, and anchor man, a full mile to the finish line.

The special events will all be held at night, preliminaries in majority of other contests being scheduled during the afternoon and finals after dark. Business and professional men, who have for years been unable to attend athletic contests because of business connections, are expected to attend the meet en masse.

Prelims Start At 3 Preliminaries will start at 3 p. m. and will be finished by 5:30 p. m. according to present plans of those in charge. Prelims are slated in 10 events, the 100-yd dash, 220-yd high and 220-yd low hurdles, high jump, broad jump, shot put, discus, javelin and pole vault.

Dave Williams of Girard will officiate as referee while George Thompson of the colored Y. M. C. A. in Akron, former holder of track records at the University of Indiana and one of Ohio's best track officials, will be starter. George

New Coach Elected To Wilmington Post WILMINGTON, April 22.—W. J. Steele, director of athletics at Frankfort high school in Ross county for the last five years, has been appointed director of physical education and head varsity athletics coach at Wilmington college, President B. O. Skinner announced late Monday.

President Skinner said Steele signed a three-year contract to succeed C. W. "Shifty" Bolen who resigned last March 1 to go into business in Columbus. He said the department would be enlarged during the next year and another coach hired to coach varsity football and basketball in order to leave Steele free to direct the physical education program.

Bolen announced his resignation last November after coaching here for seven years.

Hitters Come Into Own In Major Loops

Batters Paste Hurlers For 90 Safeties In Four Contests

NINE FOUR-BASERS FEATURE OF DAY

Rookie Slabster Holds Tigers To Four Hits As Indians Win

Pitchers have been grabbing the spotlight as often this season that already it had been forecast that big guns in major league slugging would be unusually calm this season. But Monday, the opening of the second week of the major season, things began to hum as the hitters came into their own and the lively ball was livelier than at any time since the season opened.

Wearily apparently of reading accounts of two and three hit games, batters in the four games of the older circuit yesterday grasped their bludgeons firmly, took a toe-hold and blasted out 90 safe hits, nine of them home runs.

The day's batting honors went to the New York Giants who smashed out 14 safeties including four for the circuit to beat the Phils, 8-6, and chalk up their fourth successive win without a defeat. Travis Jackson, Giant shortstop, hit twice for the circuit and Fred Leach and Bob O'Farrell each contributed one homer to the common cause. The Phils hit Bill Walker hard but could not bunch their 11 safeties to

Fort Wayne Lineup Uncertain For 1930 Central Loop Race

Only Two Veterans Back From 1929 Season; To Play Opener May 1

This is the second of a series of stories on prospects of Central league clubs.

FT. WAYNE, Ind., April 22.—With two weeks remaining before the opening of the Central league season, the lineup that will represent Fort Wayne in the opening tilt at Richmond May 1, is still extremely uncertain. It will be almost entirely different, however, from that which finished the 1929 season.

Port Wayne returns to home ownership this year after one season under the St. Louis Cardinal regime. Punch Knoll, who won a pennant here in 1928, is back as manager. Chester G. Schiefer, who purchased the club, acquired a dozen or so players from the Cardinals in the deal but it looks as if only a half dozen of these will be in the lineup.

Only two veterans who played through the 1929 season here are scheduled to be back. They are Johnny Reider, outfielder, and Walter Nadolson, catcher. Several others who were here during the closing weeks of the season are on the roster, however, and are likely to land jobs. They are Hal Smith and John Schelberg pitchers, Joe Kelly, infielder.

IRVING HADLEY, Senators.—Scattered Athletics' eight hits and gave them first defeat, 6-3.

TED LYONS, White Sox.—Held Browns to five hits in 10 innings and tripled to start rally that won game, 3-2.

CLINT BROWN, Indians.—Held Tigers to five hits as Indians won, 6-3.

FT. WAYNE, Ind., April 22.—With two weeks remaining before the opening of the Central league season, the lineup that will represent Fort Wayne in the opening tilt at Richmond May 1, is still extremely uncertain. It will be almost entirely different, however, from that which finished the 1929 season.

Port Wayne returns to home ownership this year after one season under the St. Louis Cardinal regime. Punch Knoll, who won a pennant here in 1928, is back as manager. Chester G. Schiefer, who purchased the club, acquired a dozen or so players from the Cardinals in the deal but it looks as if only a half dozen of these will be in the lineup.

Only two veterans who played through the 1929 season here are scheduled to be back. They are Johnny Reider, outfielder, and Walter Nadolson, catcher. Several others who were here during the closing weeks of the season are on the roster, however, and are likely to land jobs. They are Hal Smith and John Schelberg pitchers, Joe Kelly, infielder.

"SEVEN DAYS LEAVE"
At The State
"Seven Days Leave" opened at the State theater yesterday and struck a new note in cinema entertainment.

Here is a play that has not the slightest hint of boy-and-girl love in it anywhere. "Seven Days Leave" is worthy of the current movie season's laurel tiara for the reason that it is one of the most poignantly human pieces of audible screen production ever projected to the eyes and ears of American audiences.

Based on the successful stage play, "The Old Lady Shows Her Medals," by Sir James M. Barrie,
"Seven Days Leave" gains considerable substance by its transition to the celluloid medium. Its scope, of course, is widened. But in addition to this there is a certain flavor of indescribable forcefulness about it that could not possibly exist in a stage production anywhere. Perhaps this is just that old Barrie whimsy percolating through, much as it did in "Peter Pan." Suffice it to say that one must see and hear this picture to assimilate the full savor of its dramatic substance.

Gary Cooper is starred as the soldier-hero, the lanky Canadian, of the "Black Watch," who is adopted as her sch by a pathetic Scotch charwoman of London.

"SALLY"
At The Grand

"Sally," the elaborate vitaphone picture starring Marilyn Miller at the Grand, boasts more than the usual quota of comedians.

Four of the best known funny men of Hollywood are included in the cast of this all-dialogue picture, which is entirely in color.
They are Joe E. Brown, famous stage and screen laugh-provoker, T.
Roy Barnes, who has many comedy roles to his credit, Ford Sterling, who was one of the original Keystone Kops and Jack Duffy, star of innumerable two-reel comedies.
"Sally" is adapted from the famous musical comedy in which Miss Miller broke all theatrical box-office records for over three years, and is her first motion picture.
Pert Kelton, Alexander Gray,
Maude Turner Gordon, E. J. Ratcliffe, Jack Duffy and many others are included in the all-star cast.

Five Special Events To Feature Relay Carnival Here Friday

THE DAY In Sports

OHIO STATE university athletic officials apparently have become tired of repeated setbacks the Scarlet and Gray has received in basketball competition in the Western Conference. Stahl, diminutive but smart Dayton Stivers senior for several years, has been selected to coach basketball at the Buckeye school, his appointment being announced late Monday.

The announcement confirmed rumors of an offer current shortly after Stahl's Stivers team won the state basketball championship for the third straight time last March 22, and would then by Stahl himself. The matter is subject to the approval by the athletic board at its meeting later this week, but no difficulty is expected in that quarter.

STAHL HAS COACHED Stivers teams in football, baseball and basketball for four years. His 1929 football team and 1930 basketball teams were undefeated. He will coach freshman basketball, the varsity reserves in football and probably help with freshman baseball. He will probably assist Harold Olsen head basketball coach, in an advisory capacity.

The new Buckeye coach was graduated from University of Illinois in 1926. He earned his varsity letter in baseball as an outfielder and pinch hitter.

PETE SCULLION, playing manager of the Dun Eden park baseball club is losing no time in gathering together his 1930 baseball team. He has made arrangements for at least 20 candidates to appear at the first call to practice sessions. Players from Salem, Alliance, Damascus and other nearby places will be on the team's roster.

Scullion plans to have one of the finest teams seen here in years. Present arrangements call for a game on the first Saturday or Sunday in May following which most games will be played on the home field at Dun Eden park. Some of the country's outstanding road attractions will probably be scheduled.

GEORGE W. DUNN is backer of the team and also acts in capacity of secretary-treasurer while Scullion is playing manager and coach. Fred K. Schuller has been appointed business manager.

COLUMBIANA

Columbiana churches report large Easter attendance at the presentation of interesting programs. At the Lutheran church, a communion service was given in the morning, while in the evening the Daughters of the King rendered the cantata, "The First Easter," under the direction of Miss Martha Zimmerman, with Miss Ethel Lennig at the organ. Solo parts were sung by Mrs. Arthur Lennig, Miss Florence Hively, Mrs. L. R. Wilson and Mrs. Clyde Biddison, while Miss Florence Lipp read the Easter story with musical accompaniment.

The Epworth league held a sunrise prayer meeting at 6:30 a. m. A sunrise meeting was also held at the Presbyterian church at the same hour, followed by the Sunday school and a church communion service, at which new members were received into the church. Communion services were held at Grace Reformed church.

At the services of the Nazarene church in the school building, a special Easter program was given by the children, and members made sacrificial donations which will be used toward the purchase of a lot for building purposes.

A special music was also a feature of the Sunday services at the Christian church.

Mrs. Ralph Hum and Mrs. Harry Herrman entertained the South Side club Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Hum, South Main st., with 10 members present. Following the social hour, at which fancywork was the chief diversion, a dainty lunch was served. Mrs. Ray Fisher will be the next hostess.

The Misses Grace Frye and Mabel Brungard, accompanied by Miss Catherine Frye, Youngstown, spent the week end at Columbus.

William, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Bowles, West Park ave., broke a bone in his left arm Friday evening while at play.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Holloway have begun the erection of a new home on their property, Canfield rd. Isaiah Mowen is the general contractor.

Robert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lamoucha, south of town, broke his right arm Friday, while at play.

The members of Sunset Temple, Pythian Sisters will celebrate their 21st anniversary Wednesday evening in the K. of P. hall. A program will be followed by a social hour.

Walter Ferrall and Lee Bookwalter, students at Ohio State university, Columbus, spent the week end at their parental homes here.

Mrs. Virginia Feiger and nephew, Teddy Potts, of Beaver Falls, spent the week end with Columbiana friends.

Mrs. Margaret Wonsitler, Youngstown, is visiting at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Raymond Rock, and family, Woodland ave.

J. J. Steingass has been seriously ill for the past week at the home of his daughter, Mrs. T. B. Hyland.

Star Tracksters Of Entire District Will Compete For Honors

TWENTY Ohio high schools reinforced with their strongest array of track and field talent will concentrate activities on efforts to annex victory laurels in the first annual night relay carnival sponsored by the Salem High School Athletic association under the floodlights of Reilly athletic stadium here Friday.

Believed to be the first event of its kind ever held in the history of American interscholastic track and field activities, the carnival is expected to prove a magnet to the largest gathering of spectators ever assembled in Columbiana county for an early spring scholastic athletic event. Eighteen events, five of them special contests, are scheduled as the day's attractions.

In addition to the usual 13 track and field contests, the quintet of underpath events have been arranged as special features to give the meet all the color and glamor of a great interscholastic competition. There will be a one-half mile relay, another of one mile, one of two miles and a fourth scheduled for four miles. The fifth, and one of the most spectacular races scheduled during the day is a sprint medley relay.

Four runners will compose a team in each event. In the 880-run event contestants will run 220 yards and in the mile relay each man will race a quarter-mile. The two-mile event will race for honors for a distance of one full mile each, in the four-mile relay.

First In History Here It will be the first time Salem and other district fans have ever had of the two and four-mile relays and the sprint medley. In this latter race, the first runners will race 220 yards, the second 440, the third 880 and the fourth, and anchor man, a full mile to the finish tape.

The special events will all be held at night, preliminaries in majority of other contests being scheduled during the afternoon and finals after dark. Business and professional men, who have for years been unable to attend athletic contests, because of business connections, are expected to attend the meet en masse.

Prelims Start At 3 Preliminaries will start at 3 p. m. and will be finished by 5:30 p. m. according to present plans of those in charge. Prelims are slated in 10 events, the 100-yd dash, 220-yd high and 220-low hurdles, high jump, broad jump, shot put, discus, javelin and pole vault.

Dave Williams of Girard will officiate as referee while George Thompson of the colored Y. M. C. A. in Akron, former holder of track records at the University of Indiana and one of Ohio's best track officials, will be starter. George

New Coach Elected To Wilmington Post The Easter cantata, "Bright Easter Morn," was given Sunday evening at the Methodist church by the choir under the direction of Mrs. Edgar P. Miller. Special music was also given at the morning church service, when Rev. C. R. McMeekin preached on the theme, "Alone Forevermore."

The Epworth league held a sunrise prayer meeting at 6:30 a. m. A sunrise meeting was also held at the Presbyterian church at the same hour, followed by the Sunday school and a church communion service, at which new members were received into the church. Communion services were held at Grace Reformed church.

Ohio Southpaws To Vie For Golf Title

PORTSMOUTH, April 22.—The fourth annual tournament of the Ohio Amateur Golf association for the state championship will be held Aug. 14 to 17 at the Portsmouth Country club, President E. G. Livesay of Portsmouth announced today.

Charles Nixon, Columbus, will defend his championship. About 200 left-handed golfers are expected to compete.

Liverpool Will Start Season

Wellsville Tracksters To Oppose Zookmen At Patterson Field

EAST LIVERPOOL, April 22.—East Liverpool and Wellsville high track and field athletes will open their season, clashing in a duel meet at Patterson field here, Saturday afternoon.

Few practices have been held by Coach Earl Zook's lads due to continued inclement weather and the coach refused to risk chances of early season casualties when he cancelled his team's entry in the East Palestine meet last week.

Special practice sessions will be held tonight and Wednesday to determine what athletes will represent the Blue and White against Wellsville.

The Orange and Black too, has not been able to hold regular practices and has no regular team lined up as yet. Saturday's meet, however, will enable coaches of both schools to acquaint themselves with 1930 prospects.

Hitters Come Into Own In Major Loops

Batters Paste Hurlers For 90 Safeties In Four Contests

NINE FOUR-BASERS FEATURE OF DAY

Rookie Slabster Holds Tigers To Four Hits As Indians Win

Pitchers have been grabbing the spotlight so often this season that already it had been forecast that big guns in major league slugging would be unusually calm this season.

But Monday, the opening of the second week of the major season, things began to hum as the hitters came into their own and the lively ball was livelier than at any time since the season opened.

Wary apparently of reading accounts of two and three hit games, batters in the four games of the older circuit yesterday grasped their bludgeons firmly, took a toe-hold and blasted out 93 safe hits, nine of them home runs.

The day's batting honors went to the New York Giants who smashed out 14 safeties including four for the circuit to beat the Phils, 8-6, and chalk up their fourth successive win without a defeat. Travis Jackson, Giant shortstop, hit twice for the circuit and Fred Leach and Bob O'Farrell each contributed one homer to the common cause. The Phils hit Bill Walker hard but could not bunch their 11 safeties to enough advantage to offset the Giants' powerful slugging. Cubs hit 3 Circuits. Wilson, Hartnett and Beck hit homers as the Chicago Cubs whipped Cincinnati, 9 to 1. All told the Cubs collected 14 safe hits off four Red pitchers while Hal Carlson set down the enemy with five.

Del Bissouette was the big noise in a 16-hit attack the Brooklyn Robins launched against the Braves to win, 15-2. Bissouette drove in seven runs with a homer, triple and single. Adolfo Luque pitched steady ball for the Robins but had to retire in the ninth when a line drive from Sailer's bat hurt his pitching hand.

In the other National league fray, the Pittsburgh Pirates made good use of their seven hits to beat St. Louis, 6-4. The Cards collected nine safeties but Brame was effective in the pinches. Comorosky hit for the circuit in the second inning.

Pitchers dominated the American league games. Irving (Bumps) Hadley, of the Washington Senators, was too much for the Philadelphia Athletics and the A's went down to their first defeat of the season, 6-3.

Clint Brown, rookie pitcher, held the Detroit Tigers to five hits and Cleveland won without trouble, 6-1. The Indians batted around in the first inning scoring four runs on five hits.

Ted Lyons was the whole show as the Chicago White Sox noosed out St. Louis, 3-2, in ten innings. Lyons held the Browns to five hits and scored the winning run in the tenth when he tripled and came home on Ernie Smith's single.

Fort Wayne Lineup Uncertain For 1930 Central Loop Race

Only Two Veterans Back From 929 Season; To Play Opener May 1

This is the second of a series of stories on prospects of Central league clubs.

FT. WAYNE, Ind., April 22.—With two weeks remaining before the opening of the Central league season, the lineup that will represent Fort Wayne in the opening tilt at Richmond May 1, is still extremely uncertain. It will be almost entirely different, however, from that which finished the 1929 season.

Fort Wayne returns to home ownership this year after one season under the St. Louis Cardinal regime. Punch Knoll, who won a pennant here in 1928, is back as manager. Chester G. Schiefer, who purchased the club, acquired a dozen or so players from the Cardinals in the deal but it looks as if only a half dozen of these will be in the lineup.

Only two veterans who played through the 1929 season here are scheduled to be back. They are Johnny Reider, outfielder, and Walter Nadolson, catcher. Several others who were here during the closing weeks of the season are on the roster, however, and are likely to land jobs. They are Hal Smith and John Schelberg pitchers, Joe Kelly, infielder.

In addition to Smith and Schelberg, the pitching staff at present consists of Wilfred "Grunt" Lucas, who helped win a pennant in 1928 but did little pitching last year; Guilford Paulsen, who pitched for Shawnee in the Western association last year; Mike Delaney, with Waynesboro in the Blue Ridge league, and Eddie Marleau, just secured an option from the Toledo club of the American association.

There are a number of experienced infielders; Johnny Wright, purchased first baseman from Mobile in the Southern Association; Joe Kelly, veteran shortstop who has competition from Dotterer, also with Waynesboro last year; Carl Dorley secured from Laurel in the Cotton States league, at third base; Dutch Usat, a Central league veteran of two seasons, part time; Butch Conlan, secured from Toledo on option, and Adrian Maurer.

Frank Kinsler and Reider are the only outfielders on the list at present but several local semi-pro players have been working out.

What The Stars Did Yesterday

TRAVIS JACKSON, Giants.—Smashed out two home runs, drove in four runs, to help Giants whip Phils, 8-6.

IRVING HADLEY, Senators.—Scattered Athletics' eight hits and gave them first defeat, 6-3.

TED LYONS, White Sox.—Held Browns to five hits in 10 innings and tripled to start rally that won game, 3-2.

CLINT BROWN, Indians.—Held Tigers to five hits as Indians won, 6-3.

The Girl From God's Mercy By William Byron Mowery

By RAY SCHILLING

We meet the girl from God's Mercy, Frances Barton, returning from two years of college in the states to her home in the Hudson Bay country. To Stanley Clarke, a passenger on the same train, and also a noted scientist, the girl puzzles him and fascinates him. Why is she going into the heart of the north and why the worried expression on her lovely face? Then he finds himself a passenger in the same airplane and learns that she is returning to marry Earl Armstrong, who Frances considers the best friend in the world, but isn't at all sure that he's the man she wants to marry.

After this chance meeting the lives of Frances, Clarke and Earl become deeply intertwined. Clarke finds the friend of his dreams in Earl, this pioneer of the north with his reinder ranch. Frances discovers that Clarke is the man she loves, but Earl can not be sacrificed like that and she married him.

Earl is having difficulties with the halfbreeds on his ranch and from the time of the wedding at Earl's request until they reach their destination the treachery and cunning of these half civilized breeds has to be coped with at every turn. It is a typical book of the north country, deep forests, swift rivers, brave men and always the fight of survival of the fittest.

The Great Meadow By Elizabeth Madox Roberts

The Great Meadow is the meaning of the Indian word "Kentuck" to the settlers of Virginia at the time of the American Revolution. It was a land of promise, fertile soil, abundant game and beautiful rivers. The rumors of this land overshadowed the peril inflicted by the red skins, and many a pioneer was willing to face this danger and see for himself all the wonders of Kentucky.

Berk Jarvis married Diony Hall and takes her into this wilderness, to make their home inside of the fort under the care and protection of Harrod. When Berk's mother is scalped by an Indian, while she is protecting Diony, Berk leaves Diony to have his revenge for he has heard rumors that the Indian still wears his mother's scalp at his waist.

Three years is he gone—when he returns he finds many changes have taken place at the little fort. Diony living in the house that he had built before he left, but to his dismay she has married again. The situation is not the usual triangle of

Today's Pattern

PRACTICAL as well as becoming, is this attractive house dress that is held in place by a sash forming a bow in back. The short kimono sleeves are mighty comfy, and the small turned back, front collar is indeed flattering. A pocket on the right side, or one on each side if you wish, is large enough to be useful.

Design 1886 will wear and launder well if made of gingham, percale, cotton broadcloth, dimity, pique or rayon. Dots and floral prints vie for popularity this season. White or pastel grounds are lovely.

This pattern may be ordered only in sizes 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32 and 34. Size 16 requires 3 yards of 39 inch material.

No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model with our pattern. Yardage for every size, and simple, exact instructions are given.

two men and a woman, but a critical situation that Diony is forced to meet, for the law of the wilderness says she is the one to make the decision.

Why tell more—read it yourself and see what splendid people these pioneer forefathers of ours were. Miss Roberts writes in her usual style of singing prose. The story loses none of its charm in the telling.

Disappearance Of Aged Man Cleared

NEW YORK, April 22.—The mysterious disappearance eight and one-half years ago of Henry L. Norton, Civil War veteran and prominent Mason, had been solved today with the identification of a skeleton found in a thicket two miles from Rose sanitarium in Brentwood, N. Y.

Identification was made by two sons through a watch, a scarf pin, a pair of eyeglasses and other personal effects found about the thicket. They said no marks of violence were found and that their father evidently had died of exposure.

Mr. Norton disappeared Nov. 8, 1921, two months before his 84th birthday.

MOTHERS now learn value of MAGNESIA

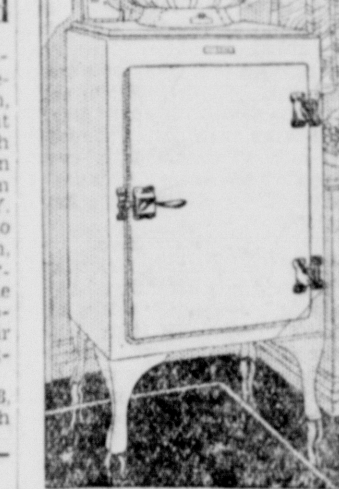

Because it is so helpful in keeping babies and children healthy and happy, every mother should know about Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. This harmless, almost tasteless preparation is most effective in relieving those symptoms of babies and children generally caused by souring food in the little digestive tract, such as sour-belching, frequent vomiting, feverishness, colic. As a mild laxative, it acts gently, but certainly, to open the little bowels in constipation, colds, children's diseases.

A teaspoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia does the work of half a pint of lime water in neutralizing cow's milk for infant feeding, and preventing hard curds. Its many uses for mother and child are fully explained in the interesting book "Useful Information." It will be sent you, FREE. Write The Phillips Co., 117 Hudson St., New York, N. Y.

In buying, be sure to get genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. Doctors have prescribed it for over 50 years. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of the Chas. H. Phillips Chemical Co. and its predecessor, Chas. H. Phillips, since 1875.
